New employee housing opened last week in Big Sky.

The Levinski Lodge has three buildings and offers apartment-style living for manager-level workers and families.

Big Sky Resort's general manager Troy Nedved says the new space boasts a unique style that fits individual tastes.

"Well, this has been in the works for a while, and we have been committed to our employee housing investments for over 30 years. But these newest are a product that we are super proud of, different styles of what we built for many years. This Levinski complex of A, B, and C buildings has taken us to over 1000 beds in big sky, and we are super proud of that," said Nedved.

The housing is dorm-style and apartment-style complexes. The building boasts a large gym, bike storage area, and workshop, as well as quiet rooms and communal areas.

Big Sky Resort says it plans to utilize this type of housing in more products.
